GROWTH

By Edgar A. Guest

By the choice we make
Of the road we take,
By the things that we do or say;
By our yes or no
To the cry: "Let's go!"
We are fashioned from day to day.

By our will to bear
What comes of care,
By our spirit in work or play,
By the little tasks
Which life always asks
We are fashioned from day to day.

We are known to men
By the notes we pen
Of comfort and help and cheer,
And the minutes we spend
To play the friend
To one who needs friendship here.

Oh, it isn't by fate
That men grow great,
But it's choosing which road to fare;
It's seeking what's right
By day and by night,
And sharing another's care.

* * *

"Wish I was a good talker."

* * *

I have had many men and women in all walks of life confide to me that they wish that they were a convincing talker. One who could express their ideas and views in public in a forceful manner.

* * *

I cannot, however, ever recall ever hearing anyone express the desire that they wish they were an inspiring listener.

* * *

And yet—looking back over my life and refreshing my memory of the many persons whom I have met in the North, East, South and Western part of this great nation, and in foreign countries, it has always been the personalities who have trained themselves to be inspiring and enthusiastic listeners which have impressed me most.

* * *

The most charming host and hostess are always those who have the rare ability to keep themselves in the background and make their guests feel important.

An individaul does not necessarily have to be a "good talker" in order to achieve the reputation of having a charming and individualistic personality. There is an undefinable something which surrounds us which radiates our worthwhileness far more than speech.

* * *

For instance, mention the name of a great artist, a world renowned composer, a celebrated musician, a beloved poet, or a popular sportsman and observe the reaction of your remark makes on the face of your listener. In the twinkling of an eye, you are informed by the expression whether or not your listener knows of whence you speak, and has an understanding. Instantly you know whether your listener is bored, endeavoring to be polite or really interested.

* * *

I have many times been a member of a group of men in a Pullman smoking compartment, on ship board or in hotel lobbies and have observed one particular individual sitting quietly by, intently absorbing every word which was being said and saying but very little, and yet—I knew beyond all question that that particular individual knew far more about the subject being discussed than all the rest of the group combined.

* * *

It's mighty nice to be a gifted talker with an unusual vocabulary and perfect enuniciation, but—if this is not possible, try to take advantage of the opportunity to be an inspiring listener.

Board of Supervisors Out To Protect the County Merchants

Second Ordinance Provides Payment of License Fee $100 Day for Traveling Carnivals, and Third for Inspection of Milk and Dairy Plants

As a result of a petition of the Truckee Chamber of Commerce submitted to Nevada County District Attorney W. E. Wright, the Nevada County Board of Supervisors passed a new ordinance last Saturday at the county seat whereby all peddlers hereafter who peddle outside of an incorporated city in the county will be obliged to pay a fee of $90 per quarter.

A second ordinance now makes it necessary for all traveling carnivals to pay a license fee of $100 for the first day and $90 for each day thereafter.

A third ordinance provides for the inspection of all milk sold by dairymen and milk dealers outside of an incorporated city. This ordinance also provides for the payment of the dairymen of one-fourth of a cent per gallon for all milk sold. This money to be used to pay an inspector who will be appointed by the county health officer. The ordinance carries provisions regarding the quality of milk and the inspector will make inspections of milk at frequent intervals to see that these provisions are properly complied with. The inspector is empowered with the authority to inspect all dairy plants and the equipment of vendors.

Truckee merchants have been disturbed for some time over the number of peddlers which have been coming into town and securing business which they have contended rightfully belongs to them. It has been stated that the peddlers have not assisted in the development of the community, nor have they assisted in the support of the public schools, churches and other public institutions. And they have not employed local labor.

The new ordinances are all very much in order, and the Board of Supervisors are to be commended for properly protecting the people of Nevada County.

LARGE AUDIENCES ACCLAIM 'MIKADO' GREAT SUCCESS

Fine Singing, Acting, Costumes, Scenery All Combine to Good Effect

Enthusiastic and appreciative audiences received the Wyethia Club presentation of "The Mikado" Friday and Saturday nights in the Masonic Hall. Effective scenery and gorgeous costuming proved a fitting background for the near-professional acting and singing of the large and capable cast.

Honors for the best performances go unquestionably to Frank Gaiennie as Ko-Ko, and to Marjory Fay as Katasha. Their duets in the second act were the highlight of the performance. Lovey Edmunds was delightful as the bright Yum-Yum and Gino Giovannoni proved a fitting foil. In parts not quite so large but splendidly enacted, Yvonne Gaiennie and Phil Lees added much to the performance. Boyd Campbell made the most of his interpretation as the Mikado and R. C. Gregory and Jean Kendrick executed their roles faithfully and gave excellent support. A slim umbrella boy in the person of Daryl Gaiennie almost stole the second act with his ludicrous mimicking of the Mikado. The well-trained chorus filled out the presentation admirably.

The greatest credit is due to the coaches, Mrs. E. W. Guthridge, who as general director made herself responsible for all phases of the production; to Mrs. W. F. Wilkie who planned and directed the dialogue and designed the make-ups and to Mrs. Dave Cabona, whose fine effort was clearly evident in the fine showing of the choruses and in all the songs.

A few outstanding features: "A Wandering Minstrel," trio in the first act, Frank Gaiennie, Phil Lees and R. C. Gregory; "Three Little Maids" with the chorus; "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring;" duet, Boyd Campbell and Marjory Fay; Scene, Frank Gaiennie and Marjory Fay; the finales.

The service was read by the Rev. R. C. Ritter in the Methodist Church at one o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Max Goodwin of Reno attended the couple.

Mrs. Maxsom wore a pink flat crepe cape dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The bridesmaid chose blue wtih a corsage of pink carnations. After the services the group motored to Truckee where a wedding supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Maxsom.

Both the bride and the bridegroom are members of old Truckee families and received their education in Truckee schools. Maxsom is employed by the Sierra Pacific Electric Company while Mrs. Maxsom is with the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. They will make their home on Riverside Drive.

THANK YOU, GOVERNOR!

By his veto of the Road Sign Bill, which would shift the cost of putting up road signs, Governor Rolph has rendered the people of California a distinct service.

Just why State Senator J. L. Seawell took advantage of a time when every legislator was weakened by long hours and little sleep to offer a resolution to have this bill hauled out onto the floor of the Senate after it had had a fair hearing by a committee and chloroformed is still a mystery. Especially so considering the fact that the official figures prepared by the director of the State Department of Public Works stated that the State of California saves $43,000.00 a year on sign maintenance under the existing arrangements.

Seawell's activity in connection with this bill is most unfortunate, as it means that from now on, the voters will have just cause to carefully scrutinize all bills which Seawell favors or shows interest in.

By his veto of the bill, the Governor proves to all his people that he has their best interest at heart.

FINANCIAL REALISM

It is the fashionable thing to be "realistic" about things political and economic. That means practical. But most of the professed realism you hear is mere talk. Echoes, perhaps, of other talk in other years—not fact-facing here and now.

Talk about prices and wages and the perils of inflation, for example.

A hard-headed business observer points out that the last time wholesale commodity prices were where they are now, city bricklayers were working 10 hours a day for $3. "By all the maxims of the economists," he says, "they ought to be doing it now, perhaps with an extra dollar for the advantages of machinery. But you don't see them doing it."

Thirty years ago, at that price level, common labor got $1 to $2 a day. Employers don't want to go back to that. Nobody wants to. It would drag retail prices still lower, to join wholesale prices, and then it would be a long climb back. Intelligent business wants to hold up wages, to bring prices up again, and restore profits.

There is some price improvement lately, but the dollar is still terribly high, and prices are still terribly low, dragging wages down—down—down.

The country doesn't want inflated currency—money not based on gold. That would be a quick way to raise wages and prices, but perilous. The country does want, and bitterly needs a credit expansion, and along with it, as much currency expansion as the gold basis will permit. Big bond issues and liberal banking policies will expand credit Our gold ratio is high enough for a liberal currency expansion.

YOUTHFUL CRIME

Crime statistics presented by the bureau of investigation of the federal Department of Justice reveal that 40 per cent of the records examined were of persons less than 25 years of age. According to the bureau's report:

"Persons 19 years of age lead the nation's crime procession. Treading hard on the heels of those delinquents in the last year of their 'teens are persons under 21 years of age, who account for one of each five whose arrest records were examined."

That sounds bad, but it is far from being so serious as it looks at first glance. The New York Times figures cheerfully that children under 15 and persons over 65 are not much involved in crime statistics. Between those ages the national population is about 80,000,000. There are about 22,500,000 persons between the ages of 15 and 25. That is close to 30 per cent of the "potential criminal population." If it produces 40 per cent of the crimes, that is not a greatly disproportionate number and certainly does not indicate that the youthful crime situation is hopeless.

Furthermore, auto stealing is the crime most prevalent in that young group. Serious as it is, and serious as are the crimes which may grow out of it, nevertheless the stealing of a car by a restless, misguided boy does not mean that he is a hardened criminal, beyond redemption. Often it is a first crime, and may also be the last if the perpetrator is properly treated by the authorities.

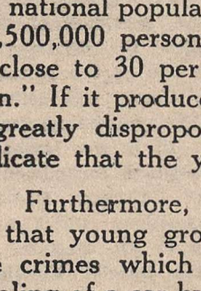
The chief lessons to be learned from the justice department figures, therefore, are the tremendous importance of getting at the causes of youthful crimes and the need of wise judicial handling of offenders and constructive reform work.

THE MOUNTAIN COMES TO MOHAMMED!

LOVELY HANDS ARE AN IMPORTANT BEAUTY ASSET

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THE lovely lady of today does not depend on her good points alone to get by. She knows that it is the sum of her good features, her careful grooming and personal daintiness that make her truly beautiful. One of the details that contributes most to your loveliness — and one that is most frequently neglected — is your hands. In an emergency you can tuck unruly locks under a soft, little brimmed hats, or brighten up your complexion with a touch of rouge and a dusting of powder, but if your hands are neglected, what can you do? Not much—unless you sit on them! And that measure would be just as conspicuous as your unlovely hands!



MISS HUNT

When your hands appear neglected and old and rough, they can ruin the loveliest frock or spoil your otherwise perfect grooming. It isn't the shape of your hands that counts so much —or even the color of your hands. Plump hands can be nice hands if they are well cared for and strong, brown hands can win the admiration of your friends if you keep them lovely and perfectly groomed. You can do a great deal about determining the shape and flexibility of your hands if you wish—but it is the texture of the skin and the shape and appearance of your nails that do most to determine their beauty.

The beginning of this good grooming is the cleansing. Just because you have washed your hand ever since you were a youngster, you are likely to overlook the fine points of hand care. You should always use a fine, mild toilet soap. Such soaps are not expensive and a good cake will last a long time. Use a toilet soap that is delicately scented to blend with your favorite perfume and you will always have an elusive fragrance about your fingertips—another fine point of hand grooming.

Use a stiff nail brush to keep your nails clean underneath and to brush away any bits of dead cuticle or grime around the edges of your nails. Rinse the hands in warm water, then in cool water, after the soap and water scrubbing and dry them with a soft towel. And every single time you wash your hands put on a softening cream or lotion.

If your hands perspire, one of the liquid deodorants on the market will usually correct the condition immediately. Sometimes a simple facial astringent or an antiseptic powder is sufficient. Moist, clammy hands sometimes result from a nervous or rundown physical condition. If you suspect that this is true in your case, you should do all that you can to get at the cause and build up your health.

A well regulated living schedule will do most for the nervousness. Get an hour of exercise or recreation out of doors every day, eat three nourishing, well balanced meals and get plenty of rest and sleep. Always try to relax your hands before you go to sleep. Your fingers are the ends of your nervous system and you should let them loosen and rest during the night. Wringing your hands limply from the wrist and gentle upward massage from your fingertips to your elbows will often bring relief and relaxation and help your hands to be healthy and well poised.

Capitol News Letter

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—Governor Rolph dipped his bill signing pen deep into the veto ink the last few days of the bill signing period and a number of major proposals were sent back to the legislature with gubernatorial disapproval.

Perhaps the most important veto was concerned with the state salary bill. This would have provided salary cuts ranging from 5 to 32 per cent and saving the state $5,000,000 for the next biennium. In view of rising prices and in some cases, wages, the governor said the reductions were too drastic.

Among the more important bills which also were vetoed were the following: providing for the regulation of the use of state-owned motor vehicles whereby any employe using cars for other than official business would be subject to dismissal; giving the state department of public works the job of placing directional signs on state highways rather than have the work done by automoble clubs.

The box score at the end of the bill signing period: bills introduced, 3,635; bills passed by both houses and sent to the governor, 1,118; bills approved by the governor or filed to become law without his signature, 999; bills vetoed, 113; bills passed over the governor's veto, 3. It will be some time before the actual "hits" and "runs" and "errors" may be determined.

State fiscal matters had their ups and downs during the week. A board of equalization report showed that this year's revenue from utility and insurance company taxes would be $34,799,280, or $1,469,116 below that of last year . . . taking into consideration state and federal allowances it is estimated junior college districts still will be 2,000,000 short of necessary funds for the next two-year period . . . special appropriation and claim bills signed by the governor during the last few days totaled almost $1,000,000 . . . the state received $2,000,000 from the federal reconstruction finance corporation as the first payment toward financing construction of the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge.

Summer Evening

Swallows, the last bright divers
In blue pools of the air,
Turn through the jeweled shadows,
And leave the fireflies there.

The brook has turned to a pathway
Of silver, leading far
Through fragrance of the pastures
To the first blooming star.

Through trees, like shadowy banners
That only dreams may know,
Comes like a song from the distance
A window's mellow glow . . .

Leading us home, and lighting
The trails of land and sea—
By the glow it leaves forever
In the heart of memory!

Helping the World

AT A time when serious world problems are causing concern to a large part of humanity, the individual is apt to feel sorely oppressed by a sense of his own impotence, seeing the seeming incapacity of even great statesmen to cope with the difficulties in the road to amicable relationships and world prosperity. The individual in the ordinary walks of life may feel there is little or nothing he can do to help clear these obstacles from mankind's pathway. Wearied in a vain attempt to acquire an enlightened outlook on social and political questions, he may become discouraged and slip into an unresisting attitude.

Such a sense of impotence is as insidious and wrong, when individually harbored, as when it would seek to render powerless the best efforts of governments. From it the individual, no less than governments, needs to be awakened to a renewed sense of responsibility which will quicken endeavor. He must learn to acknowledge the all-power of God, and to see that mankind may utilize spiritual power to an unlimited degree in the betterment of personal and world affairs. When one is in the slough of believing that men are helpless, whether he realizes it or not he is accepting the false argument that God, good, may become temporarily dormant or inactive.

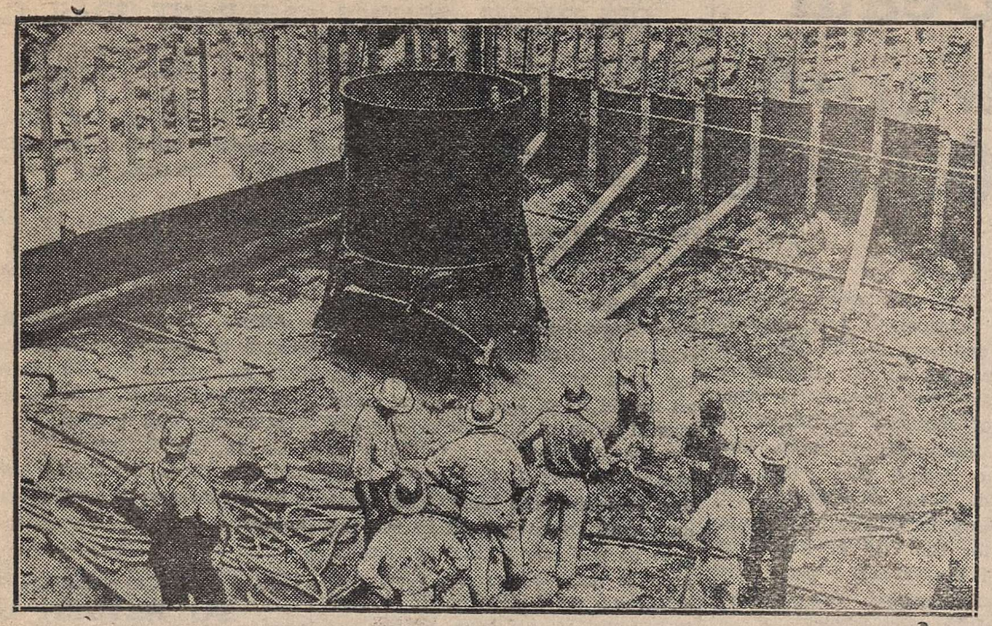
"To be, or not to be," mused Hamlet. "To think, or not to think," says the wearied individual today. Yet neither "to be, or not to be" nor "to think, or not to think" is the question; but, What shall we think? Thinking characterizes mankind, and what men think determines in detail what their experiences shall be. "Keep thy heart with all diligence," said Israel's wise king; "for out of it are the issues of life."

Is it not, then, of paramount importance that the individual shall choose to add the weight of his right thinking to the scale seemingly so dangerously counterbalanced by thoughts of limitation, criticism, impatience, greed, resentment, contumely, and censoriousness? Christian Science teaches that, as man is the image and likeness of God, all Godlike qualities are man's by reflection; and they are available and may be utilized in the broadest sense in the conduct of human affairs. No one who resolutely seeks to receive from divine Mind the constructive thoughts of brotherliness, generosity, gratitude, justice, and loving co-operation; and to express them in daily words and deeds, need ever feel impotent. As he goes about his daily affairs, if he is persistently countering false beliefs with true ideas, thoughts of depression, lack, poverty, and misery with the upbuilding thoughts of the continuity of right, the ever-presence of all enduring good qualities, and the actuality of truth and loving-kindness, he is contributing his share of the true thinking whose healing currents inevitably bring harmony and prosperity. A simple, everyday opportunity for the exercise of scientific discernment between right and wrong thoughts is offered in the reading of newspapers and magazines. All should strive earnestly that in their reading and observation the rejection of the false pictures presented may be complete and the emphatic acceptance of what is constant and good may help to light a beacon of good for the world.

Every statement of spiritual truth is an indication of the power of God. In proportion as the thoughts to which he gives utterance are statements of the truth, are "Nay, nay," to all that would oppose itself to the supremacy of God, good, in world affairs, and "Yea, yea," to every vital and constructive idea that seeks for expression in the thoughts of men, every individual may align himself with this deific power, applying it in his own thinking, and thus assist in world betterment.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, gives this loving counsel to all in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 261): "Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts." In this effective way we can rout the error of impotence, this enemy to our God-given right of conscious dominion and universal helpfulness. As masters of our thinking we can realize that every pure and honest thought goes out to bless and heal mankind, and that it can never be lost, for it is held in the infinitude of good. We can consider anew Paul's admonition to the Philippians: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."—The Christian Science Monitor.

First Concrete Poured Into Foundation of Boulder Dam



Though two years and $38,000,000 had been spent in completing the preliminary work on the Boulder Dam, in Nevada, the actual building of the huge concrete wall only recently began. This picture shows the first bucket of concrete being unloaded into the foundations, with no ceremony to mark the momentous moment except cheers from the workmen.

State Will Take Over 22 Miles of Nevada Co. Road

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—Exact mileage of roads which will be taken over from each county August 22 and incorporated in the state highway system, under provisions of the 6,600 mile road bill, has been announced by the division of highways, department of public works.

In Nevada county 22 miles of road will be absorbed by the state. This figure does not include, however, mileage inside the boundaries of cities which totals, for the entire state, 425 miles.

Actually, the state will take over approximately 6,800 miles of county roads when the bill becomes effective. Of this total, 3,456.6 miles is located in the southern half while 2,905.3 miles is in the northern section. These figures also do not include the 425 miles within cities.

Officials of the division of highways announced emphatically and conclusively that during the next biennium at least, the state cannot legally spend one cent on improvement or construction work on any of these roads. Their activities are limited to maintenance and repair.

New construction on the additional secondary highway roads is out of the picture until at least 1935 because there was no provision made for it in the 1933-35 highway budget. The division of highways, officials explained, cannot dip into the highway construction fund indiscriminately and allocate funds for whatever project appears feasible at the moment. Every highway construction unit is definitely set down in the budget and funds set aside therefor.

The new road bill will result in tremendous relief to counties. Not only will the cost of maintaining these roads be assumed by the state but also contributions of many counties to city road work will probably be discontinued—this because the cities under provisions of the measure receive a quarter of a cent per gallon of the gas tax fund and, presumably, now have sufficient money to meet their own road needs.

Stockings can be prevented from fading by washing in water to which a little turpentine is added—one tablespoonful to two quarts of water.

PATROLMAN'S BOY SNAPS CUFFS ON SELF

YREKA, Cal., June 22—(UP)—Handcuffs aren't so hot as playthings, according to little Billy Daley, son of Captain George Daley of the state highway patrol.

Billy disappeared shortly after breakfast at their home at Fort Jones. Lunch time came and passed and no sign of Billy.

During the late afternoon his mother visited an upstairs bedroom, to find the youngster sitting quietly in a corner, his hands firmly held by his father's handcuffs. The boy explained he was afraid of being punished for playing with the "cuffs" and failed to seek aid after accidentally snapping them on his wrists.

TAX EXEMPTIONS

ARE UN-AMERICAN IN SPIRIT
AND WRONG IN PRINCIPLE

Therefore . . . in the spirit of a fair deal to all we urge you to

VOTE NO ON No. 4

The Proposed Tax Exemption Measure
Special Election Tuesday, June 27

No. 4 WOULD eliminate taxes on private schools, all charging tuition, and thereby increase the tax rate upon homes, flats, apartments and all real estate, and upon personal property, including automobiles, radios, jewelry, furniture, savings accounts, et cetera. VOTE NO

No. 4 ESTABLISHES a dangerous precedent by creating an entirely new class of tax exempt properties . . . those of private schools below the collegiate grade. These schools own millions of dollars worth of land, buildings, stocks and bonds which would become tax free. And the same arguments used for exempting these properties could be used for exempting properties of lodges, fraternal orders, Y. M. C. A.'s, all of which have educational programs. There would be no end to the exemptions if we start with No. 4 VOTE NO

No. 4 WOULD remove ALL TAXES from EVERY private school, below college grade in California, including fashionable boarding academies, which charge large tuitions. It must be remembered that every school to be affected by this proposal is now charging tuition and will continue charging tuition even if No. 4 is adopted. VOTE NO

No. 4 WILL ROB many of the smaller communities of California of a vitally needed tax revenue and in such small municipalities or districts, a large decrease in the tax rate will result. It will raise taxes everywhere in the state. VOTE NO

EVERY homemaker at one time or another is faced with the problem of preparing food for some member of the family who is ill or has been ill and is on the way to recovery. Making food attractive to the person who has been ill entails more thought than merely having the linen spotless, silver shining, and pretty china. Of course the food must appeal to the eye, but have a pleasing taste and odor.

In illness and during convalescence a correct diet is just as much a part of the treatment as it must also be well cooked and other measures. A diet is required that wil contribute the most nutriment with the least effort on the part of the digestive organs. Foods which do this are milk, eggs raw or carefully cooked. fruits, well cooked cereals and pureed vegetables. All of these moods are bland in flavor with the exception of the fruit. This is a disadvantage in the ristricted diet since there is danger of the diet becoming monotonous unless the menus are planned and caried out with ingenuity.

Thge task is made still more difficult by the fact that the patient usually has very little appetite, which makes the problem a psychic as well as dietetic one. The diet can be made appetizing, however, with a little extra effort.

Broths and Clear Soups

Broths and clear soups are made more tasty by the addition of celery tops, chopped onions, tomato juice or sprigs of parsley while cooking. They are strained out, of course, but they leave their interesting flavor. When strained ceerals are served cream or fruit juice or a cube of fruit jelly will often lift them above the ordinary and increase the nutritive value of the gruel.

Fruit Juices

Fruit juices and fruit purees are excellent in the diet. Fruit sugars are readily assimilable, they supply vitamins and minerals and beneficial acids that stimulate the appetite and digestive processes. Sitrus fruits and tomato juice are especially valuable for their vitamin C content; grape juice and loganberry juice are rich in sugar, and pineapple juice in vitamins and acids.

Green Pea Timbales

Dainty timbales will appeal when the patient is allowed his first "real meal." Mix one-half cup mashed peas with one-half cup milk, one teaspoon finely minced onion, one tablespoon melted butter, one slightly beaten egg and a few grains of salt. Turn into buttered timbale molds or baking sups, set in a pan of water and bake until set. Serve with a smooth tomato sauce made from one-half cup plain white sauce to which one-fourth cup of strained tomato has been added.

A COMPANY THIRTY YEARS OLD

Last Friday the Ford Motor Company completed 30 years of automobile making.

It is also my fortieth year at the same job. I made my first engine in 1893, and it still runs. This is the engine that won the Selden Patent Suit---which took the motor car out of the exclusive class, and opened the automobile industry to hundreds of manufacturers who started during the last 30 years.

Some of the men who began with me that June day in 1903, are working here yet. All of the principles we laid down then, are still operative; we find that they have great survival value for the future. To date they have produced and sold over 21,000,000 Ford cars.

Although we created the automobile market we have never thought it was good for anyone to monopolize it. We have always believed that before business could be good for one, it must be good for all. Our discoveries and improvements have always been open to other manufacturers without patent restrictions.

Of course, there is one thing we cannot share---everyone must get it for himself---and that is experience. Money could duplicate our buildings and machines, but it cannot duplicate 40 years of experience. And it is experience that makes a motor car.

But the past does not especially concern me; it has all been a preparation for the future. For myself, I feel that I have just been gathering the tools to do something worth while, and that my real task is still ahead.

Great changes are upon the world. False ideas of every kind are vanishing in the general upheaval. Those who built truly on principle will survive---their service will carry over. Business integrity and commodity honor will be fully justified. And newer and better ways of living will appear.

That is the outlook for this young thirty-year old Company of ours.

Tuberculosis Death Rate Is Lowered 7.6 Per 100,000

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—California achieved a substantial reduction in the tuberculosis death rate last year according to a report of the state department of public health.

The actual rate for 1932 was 81,5 per 100,000 population as compared to 88.9 for 1931.

"This brings the mortality rate for this disease in California to considerably less than half of what it was in 1915 when the bureau of tuberculosis was organized in the state department of public health," the report said.

"The annual decrease in the death rate for this disease has been consistent each year since 1915 with the exception of 1918 and 1922 when intensive outbreaks of influenza determined higher trends in tuberculosis mortality. In 1906 the tuberculosis death rate for California was 225.5 per 100,000 population—more than three times as high as it was in 1932."

Health officials pointed out that there is a great variation in the mortality rate in the various counties. The fact that more advanced cases of tuberculosis are imported into the southern end of the state is held responsible for the higher death rates that prevail in some sections of southern California.

"It is interesting to note, however," the report said, "that the tuberculosis death rate of the city of Los Angeles is about the same as that for the city of San Francisco, and the rates for both cities are almost identical with the rate for the state as a whole.

"Most of the cities in southern California have phenominally low tuberculosis death rates. The rate of Pasadena, for example, was only 76.2 and a similar rate for Long Beach was 23.6 last year."

In proportion to population the tuberculosis death rate is practically high among the Chinese and Japanese. Deaths from this disease by races include white, 3,314; Negro 185; Indian, 57; Chinese, 106; Japanese, 136; Mexican, 1,072; others 140.

QUADRUPLETS ARE GRADUATED FROM OKLAHOMA SCHOOL

One of the most unusual of high school graduations took place recently at Hollis, Okla., when the four Keys sisters received their diplomas. Mona, Roberta, Leots and Mary Keys are the four beautiful young ladies—quadruplets—who look so much alike and act so much alike that it is hard, very hard, to distinguish one from the other. They have long been the study of scientists. Cases of quadruplets being born are extrmeely rare; that all should be of the same sex makes it still more of an oddity; and that all should reach maturity (they recently celebrated their 18th birthday and are the only quadruplets on record to have lived to see that age) as perfectly normal and healthy girls is unheard of. In order that scientists may continue to observe them ,they have been offered tuition in several colleges, but the girls say the choice is narrowed down to Baylor or Stephens.

CAUTIOUS SHERIFF! WON'T BE STUNG!

W. S. Stephenson of Santa Clara County, had good reason to feel that he might be stung when he filed an attachment on 210 hives of bees belonging to E. J. Vaught and George W. Pardee in Oakland yesterday.

He transferred his worries to the Sheriff's office, which in the legal documents was directed to transport the hives containing the bees from Chabot road in Oakland to 11600 Hollywood boulevard, San Leandro.

Sheriff M. B. Driver handed over the job to a deputy, Frank Wilson, who immediately went in search of netting, screening and gloves. He planned to move the bees in the night, when they had all returned to roost, or whatever bees do.

VOTERS of Nevada County

Your Board of County Supervisors unanimously endorses Proposition No. 1 on the ballot upon which the voters of California will make their decision next Tuesday, June 27th.

The sole purpose of this amendment is to provide relief to taxpayers upon common property, particularly real estate of any kind.

The State Board of Equalization estimates that if this Constitutional Amendment is passed, it will cut the tax bill of every citizen $1.63 upon every hundred dollars valuation of his assessment.

Your Board of Supervisors believe that the present tax system is outworn and offers no relief, now or in the future, to taxpayers of this county, no matter what measures of economy we may adopt.

We therefore appeal to every voter and taxpayer in Nevada County to vote "YES" on Proposition No. 1, at the election next Tuesday, June 27th, and especially urge voters to go to the polls and vote.

Two other measures in which your Board is especially interested in are No. 9 and No. 10 on the ballot. These two provide for diversion of money from the state gas tax fund to the purpose of paying state bonds, which have heretofore been paid from the state general fund. We strongly urge a "NO" vote on these two measures, for if they should pass it seems almost certain that the fund of $300,000 which has been set aside for completing the work on the Tahoe-Ukiah Highway will NOT be available, and no one can tell when it will be completed. This highway is of such vital importance to Nevada County that we hope every voter will cast his or her vote against this measure. In addition to this consideration, which is largely local, the attack on the state gas tax fund, if successful, will establish a precedent, which may eventually lead to the complete undoing of our splendid statewide highway program. We urge a "NO" vote on Nos. 9 and 10 on the ballot.

SAVE YOUR . . . . Homes And Farms!

California is face to face with a tax crisis which involves the welfare, if not the very existence, of millions of farmers, home-owners and business men.

Taxation of property has actually become confiscation!

There is only one answer . . . .

Lighten the Load

Proposition Number 1, the Riley-Stewart tax relief plan, provides real relief.

It guarantees:

1.—An immediate reduction of 38 MILLION DOLLARS in taxes on real property—a 20 per cent slash in the tax bills of homes and farms!
2.—Strict limitation of state and local spending, halting governmental extravagance.
3.—Return of utility property to local tax rolls—taxed on the same basis as common property—after January 1, 1935, making another big saving for general taxpayers.

If you want tax equality, tax reduction and strict economy . . . . .

State Motorists Must Defeat Propositions 9, 10

Efforts of organized motorists to defeat Propositions 9 and 10 will be intensified from now until the June 27 election with the aim of rolling up a decisive "No" vote, according to a statement by H. J. Brunnier, chairman of the Good Roads Committee of the Board of Directors of the California State Automobile Association. The two propositions call for a decision by the voters on proposals to divert $17,229,076 of gasoline tax money from the Highway Fund to the State General Fund for payments on old highway bonds. Discussing the opposition of the motorists organization to the propositions, Brunnier said:

"When the gasoline tax laws were adopted they put into operation the 'pay as you go' plan of financing highway development and maintenance in California. A start had been made with the proceeds of the various state highway bond issues The bonds were made a charge upon the General Fund by constitutional amendment. This was done so that at least a part of the cost of building a state system of highway would be spread among all the people. It was an entirely reasonable and proper arrangement, because the benefits of good roads are not enjoyed by the motorits alone but by all the people, in enhanced property values, increase of tourist travel, and general economic growth.

"With the coming of the gasoline taxes motorists assumed the entire cost of all further state highway maintenance and development. The motoring public was given a specifi pledge that its gasoline tax money would be dedicated strictly to those purposes and to no other purposes. The California State Automobile Association supported the gasoline tax laws and subscribed to the pledge that the money would be used only for the specified purposes. Consequently the Automobile Association is opposing Propositions 9 and 10 which plan to divert more than $17,000,000 in gasoline tax money for payments on old highway bonds.

"The propositions would violate a pledge honored by a decade of observance, from which all California has profited. The proposition mean betrayal of a solemn promise and a backward step at a time when progress in public works is imperative."

The Letter Box

To the Edtior of the
Truckee Republican:
Dear Editor:

As citizens and taxpayers of this state of California, we wish to make a few statements regarding Amendment No. 4.

Private non-profit schools in California annually educate more than 100,000 children of every creed and denomination. The education of this vast number would cost the state at least $12,500,000 anuually and an immediate expense in buildings and equipment of at least $20,000,000. This is the question that we are up against for if these schools are forced to close the doors the taxpayers of California already burdened heavily will be taxed to meet a further additional amount of over $32,000,000.

The danger lies in the fact that the state taxes these schools although they save the State and are maintained on the free will support of their patrons. These patrons are also doing their bit in paying the taxes for the public schools although their children do not go there in many cases. They build and maintain their private non-profit schools and are taxed for that also. Justice and fair play demands their release from this tax.

They are not operated for profit of any kind and whether their patrons support them through tuition fees or any other manner is no affair of the voter at large. Their patrons are perfectly free to do so or not to do so.

With regard to releasing taxable property—this kind of property is already doing the work of the State anyhow and relieving it to the extent of everything it has got.

Do not kill the goose that lays the golden egg for if you do you may be forced in these depressed times to produce the egg yourself. Vote YES on Amendment No. 4 at the next poll.

Slash Your Tax Bills!

Guard Your Homes and Farms Against Tax-Confiscation!

Halt Reckless Spending In State and Local Government!

Property taxation, in California, has passed all reason.

In many instances it has become tax-confiscation. It has throttled and stagnated business, aggravated unemployment and caused thousands of evictions from farms and homes.

More than 12 per cent of all taxes in California today are delinquent!

In some counties the delinquencies are 35 per cent. In one county 42½ per cent of all property owners are delinquent—facing loss of their properties because of confiscatory taxes!

Proposition Number 1 at Tuesday's special election will put an end to this "wrack and ruin" policy of exorbitant and unequal taxation. It will assure you of a . . .

20% Reduction in Your Tax Burden!

The saving to common property taxpayers of California—owners of homes, farms, land and business properties—will amount to 38 millions of dollars annually.

Proposition Number 1 effects this huge saving by taking $38,000,000 in school costs from the shoulders of local taxpayers and by the requirement that the state finance this expenditure through some other means than a property tax.

And in addition to this immediate saving, Proposition Number 1, when it becomes fully operative in January, 1935, will return all utility property to the local tax rolls, bringing another reduction of 15 per cent in your property taxes!

Finally, as a safegaurd against extravagance and a guarantee that your tax relief shall be PERMANENT RELIEF, Proposition Number 1 limits increases in local expenditures to not more than 5 per cent in any one year. And state expeditures not more than 5 per cent in two years!

If you want a square deal in taxation,

GIFT OF LOVE

By Rose Bennington

A bouquet of drooping lilacs,
Faded, and out of style,
Brought in and proudly offered
With shy and charming smile.

His mother frowned impatiently;
Ignored the menacing tear;
"Where did you get those flowers?
Oh take them out of here!"

Crushed lilacs and boy departed.
The guest held out her hand.
"I'm going to open up a wound,
And hope you'll understand.

"Once I, too, had a gift like yours;
A precious, bright-eyed lad.
He meant the world and all to me—
The only child I had.

"It was morning. I stood listening—
Sly footsetps in the hall.
The doorbell rang, and then I heard
A bumping sound; a fall.

"I hastily flung wide the door
To see what he had done.
The top step held his gift of love;
The bottom one—my son.

"A bunch of wilted violets
Someone had cast aside.
I held him close and whispered,
'I love them!' Then he died.

"Now, though I've lost my treasure,
This thought I'll always keep;
His eyes, so proud and happy,
Before they closed in sleep.

"So friend, I plead in parting—
I beg you! Don't be blind!
See in those faded blossoms
The gift of love behind!

'PLUMS FOR HUBBY' IS DEMOCRAT SLOGAN

Many Democratic women who actually earned political plums for themselves by their excellent work in the campaign last fall, but who do not wish to accept them for one reason or another, are seeking jobs for their husbands. That's something new in politics, but a large number of the deserving Democratic ladies' husbands are unemployed. In a number of instances, too, it is a case where the feminine winners of these plums are desired more in their party organization and lecturing work so their husbands, who of course must meet the requirements, are being given the plums as sort of consolation prizes.

Nevada County's School Buildings Valued at $356,445

By MELVIN LORD
(Unted Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—Imagine a school building costing $373,775,110!

Not that there is any such building in California, but state records show that the huge sum is the value of school buildings owned by the 3 counties of the state—a far cry from the days of the "little red schoolhouse."

As a part of this total which shows why California has such an enviable reputation as a state of beautiful schools, the school buildings of Nevada county were valued at $356,445.00

Despite the fact economic conditions have curtailed seriously the local building programs, records of the state division of school house planning show that a total of $16,114,849 was spent for the construction of new buildings last year, $24,170,455 in 1931 and ranging up to $33,897,032 in 1928.

While school officials have been devoting more and more care in the erection of public school buildings in recent years, from the view point of both utility and beauty, the recent earthquake in southern California led to the passage of laws which also will insure safety construction in the future.

In the past it has been optional as to whether school plans were submitted to the state division of school house planning, a service which nevertheless has been growing in importance in the last five years.

In the future, however, plans must be submitted to the state architect and certain specifications have been set up to assure an adequate margin of safety in the event of unusual earthquake strains to prevent a repetition of the collapse of public school buildings such as featured the recent tremblor.

The new law also requires state supervision during the actual erection of the school structures.

Official Says That State School System Is Being 'Stifled'

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—California school authorities should resign if they cannot administer schools in accordance with the law, in the opinion of Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction.

This declaration was made by Kersey when he announced he had refused to submit to the attorney general a request for an opinion sought by school authorities as to what legal action could be taken against them if they failed to maintain kindergartens as the law now requires.

"This department will consistently refuse to submit to the attorney general for his opinion any question in which is involved a conscious disregard of existing laws," Kersey said. "No governing board of a school district is worthy of being intrusted with the welfare of school children that knowingly would violate the laws passed for the benefit of childhood."

Admitting that school boards have been faced with difficult problems because of a widespread desire for the most stringent economy, Kersey said it was not possible to solve the problems by "evasion or violation of the statutes."

"Certainly governing boards of schools have no course under the law except to obey the law," he added. There economies should be as extreme as is consistent with child welfare, but must be legal.

"These boards have been elected by the people to conduct the schools through administrative officers for the benefit of the state, the community and the children in accordance with their best judgment. If the pressure from selfish groups is so great as to be unbearable, these boards should resign in justice to themselves and let other citizens assume the burden."

Kersey further pointed out that this "pressure" had come not only from a citizenry hard hit by the depression and an inequitable tax system, but by a nationally organized compaign which has as its goal "the actual stifling of the public school system of America."

PUBLIC COOPERATION SAID ONLY WAY TO COMBAT RACKETEERS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—Only through the cooperation of the public will police be able to combat racketeers effectively.

This is the opinion of Clarence Morrill, chief of the state bureau of criminal identification, speaking in favor of a cooperative organization between peace officers, merchants and civic groups.

"Ordinarily the peaple do not come to police unless they are personally affected by some crime. By means of the suggested organization, I believe everyone would be more apt to understand the problems of law enforcement and report examples of 'rackets' and other crimes whether they were directly connected or not," Morrill said.

"Some such plan will be necessary because modifications of the prohibition laws is driving the bootleggers out of business, but the bootlegger isn't going to work. Probably he'll try to find some other way to 'beat the game' and this will be our immediate problem."

Various Types of Skin Irritations, and How to Cure Them

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

THERE are a number of highly developed forms of eruptions that are sufficiently distinctive to be called by definite names, yet they are for obvious reasons often mistaken for eczema. Most of us are familiar with with that torment of our childhood. we called hives, but which the doctor named urticaria. They came in round blotches, small and large, or in long red welts. We wore plenty of clothes when I was a boy. All winter long, we were swathed in underwear, heavy stockings, mufflers, wristlets and what not. When the fi warm days of spring opened up, we sat on the hard benches of the school room and rubbed one foot on the other until those bright red welts and weals appeared about our ankles and insteps.

* * *

THEN came the glorious day when we discarded shoes and stockings, put our itching feet down on the cool earth and swished through the growing grass for further relief. We shall probably never know purer joy in living than we had in those days. Now, we sit at other desks and consider the causes of the accumulating acids that make our skins itch. We concoct one preparation to stir up our sluggish systems and another to coax the stinging discomfort from the eruption. We like to think that we have grown in scientific knowledge with the years, but we still have hives.

* * *

THERE is another form of eruption that is fairly prevalent and frequently misnamed. It is known in the books as Herpes Zoster but its common name is "shingles." It is a typical form of breaking out resulting from nervous irritation or exhaustion. It is characterized by the fact that its lesions are rather regular in formation and are likely to follow the line of some nerve-trunk. Usually there is an accompaniment of neuralgic pain. The most familiar location of shingles is in a band around the lower ribs. It was an old country saying that if the eruption met around the body, the result would be fatal. This only meant that an attack of this sort could be very serious and if prolonged or sufficiently extended might even cause death.

* * *

THE resorts that boast mineral springs have many of these eruptive cases for both internal and external treatment. The rest that can be secured in a quiet, secluded place is also an important factor. Plain water is used sparingly unless made soft with starch or bran. Soaps must be selected with the greatest care and caustic preparations avoided. The medicinal use of iron is indicated in cases that seem anaemic. Cod liver oil is dependable for use with undernourished children who suffer from skin eruptions. Quinine and strychnia are old standbys and are good as stimulants to the general system. Quinine especially has a beneficent effect upon the skin at any time

Christian Science

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, June 25, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass

The Golden Text will be: "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined" (Isa. 9:2). Other Bible citations will include: "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever" (Hebr. 13:8).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "From the infinite One in Christian Science comes one Principle and its infinite idea, and with this infinitude come spiritual rules, laws, and their demonstration, which, like the great Giver, are 'the same yesterday, and today, and forever;' for thus are the divine Principle of healing and the Christian idea characterized in the epistle to the Hebrews" (p. 112).

A definite reaction against Governor Rolph's veto of the oleomargarine tax bill was seen in the resignation of Peter P. Myhand, Merced, from the state board of agriculture. Myhand represented cotton growers who were decidedly interested in seeing the measure become a law.

LICENSE MIX-UP MAKES DOUBLE MARRIAGE

MARYSVILLE, Cal., June 22—(UP)—If tying the marital knot twice the same day makes for increased wedded bliss, Mr. and Mrs. George James are due for a happy married life.

Shortly after James and Miss Rosemary Peterson were united in marriage here they discovered the license had been issued in Sutter county. They decded to have another ceremony at once.

Journeying across the Feather river into Sutter county, the knot was tied in legal fashion, with the same witnesses and the same minister in attendance.

Official Approves $20,000,000 State Relief Bond Issue

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—Approval of the $20,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue is necessary, if California hopes to meet the demands of its huge destitute and unemployment relief army during the forthcoming two years, according to R. C. Branion, state emergency relief administrator.

Passage of the bond issue at the June 27 special election will simply mean, according to the administrator, that the state could and undoubtedly will, collect approximately $6,660,000 from the federal government.

The new federal relief bill provides the government may advance one relief dollar for every three expended by the state itself.

Insight into the actual extent of the unemployment problem in California was obtained by figures gathered by Branion's office.

The federal government, through the R. F. C., advanced to the state $11,118,120 since the first of the year. These funds went to 32 counties. Remaining counties were handling their own relief problems.

The administrator's office could not give an accurate figure on the number of unemployed. But what figures they did have indicated the total was somewhat under the loose estimates made during the legislative session.

In 32 counties, the great majority of them populous, there were 156,118 heads of families out of work on April 1. Each family averaged four in number. On the same date there were 44,114 single persons out of work.

These figures do not include the considerable number of transients. A liberal estimate of the state's unemployment total would be 350,000.

Proponents of the measure—and there is no tangible opposition—point out repayment of funds loaned to various counties is assured. Bonds would be sold to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Receipts therefrom would be distributed to various counties according to need during the next two years.

Counties must repay the loan in ten installments within ten years beginning in 1937. If installments are delinquent, the state may step in and appropriate the delinquent county tax gas tax fund allocation up to the amount due.

BLAZE CAUSES LITTE DAMAGE, EXCITEMENT

Two lines of clothing that had to be rewashed was the extent of damage done by a small fire Monday morning around ten thirty behind the Donner Garage. The pile of oily rags and waste accumulation from the garage was evidently ignited by a carelessly thrown cigarette or match.

No general alarm was turned in as the fire truck at the Ranger Station a few doors down the street rushed to the scene and soon had the blaze under control.

HOST CRASHES HIS OWN DINNER PARTY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22—(UP)—"Crashing" a banquet by an "unwelcome guest" is no rare occurrence, but when the "crashing" happens to be the host—well, it's different anyway.

E. G. Meda, local grocer, recently had occasion to call at his place of business late at night. In the rear of the store he came upon a burglar seated at the counter enjoying a feast of rye bread, salami, beer and other delicacies necessary for a delectable "Dutch lunch."

The grocer fled from the scene in search of a telephone, followed immediately by the banqueter, seeking escape. Both were successful.

George Arliss' Monocle Not Alone on Warner Set

George Arliss, whose monocle has long since ceased being a curiosity on the Warner Bros. lot, has a companion in the art of wearing the single eyeglass successfully in the cast of his latest picture, "A Successful Calamity," which will be hown at the Donner Theatre on next Sunday night.

David Torrence, famous character actor, who plays a supporting role in this picture, wears a monocle as handily as does the star of the production—and in the same eye—the right.

Both Arliss and Torrence need the glass to perfect their vision for reading.

PASADENA—(CPS) — So badly did a thief want a smoke here, he worked for several minutes to break the lock on the door of the car owned by L. W. Nichols, a tobacco salesman. His patience was rewarded, for his loot totaled fifty cartons of cigarettes and several hundred cans of tobacco.
